In all, 136 firms — out of the 241 companies in our sample — reported an increase in their headcount in FY17, same as a year ago. Out of this, nearly a fourth (32 companies) increased their headcount by 10 per cent or more. TCS was the topper and added a little over 33,000 people, taking its total employee strength to 387,000. At the other extreme, Wipro, Steel Authority of India, HDFC Bank, Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Ltd, Bharat Heavy Electricals and Reliance Communications topped the chart for reporting a decline in their headcount in FY17.

Experts attributed this to the general slowdown in the economy. "A decline in net headcount addition by corporate houses complements the slowdown in industrial growth and demand slowdown being faced by software exporters. There could be some improvement during the second half of the current financial year, but we have to see if it can compensate for the near freeze in hiring by IT companies," said G Chokkalingam, founder and managing director, Equinomics Research & Advisory.
